

ABSTRACT

A system, apparatus, and method for a link layer protocol to utilize a main buffer and share the remaining link units according to a list buffer or FIFO. The system includes an efficient link layer to facilitate transmitting and receiving data and information. The list buffer is used to store the buffer indexes for all the link units for the respective virtual connections.